REDWOOD CITY, CALIFORNIA SATURDAY, OCTOBER 5, 1918.

ESTABLISHED 1850

PALO ALTO FIRST OVER THE TOP

$419,350 Was Subscribed First Day.
This Was $850 More Than the Their Quota.

Palo Alto sent the following telegram at one minute past twelve o'clock on September 28, 1918:
"Mr. James K. Lynch, Governor Federal Reserve Bank, 25 New Montgomery Street, San Francisco, Cal.
"Palo Alto, California, is over the top with its full quota.
Four hundred and nineteen thousand and three hundred fifty dollars subscribed by two thousand and thirty-four citizens.

WILLIAM CRANSTON
"Chairman Fourth Liberty Loan, Palo Alto and Stanford University." It was enabled to accomplish this remarkable feat because of having developed in the ten days prior to the opening of the Liberty Loan at midnight, September 28th, a complete organization for Liberty Loan work, and also because of having adopted the "Volunteer Day" plan. The organization formed was the War Work Council under the Chairmanship of William Cranston. This was planned to take over and work together all war work activities. In operation it aimed to have its members or auxiliary members, representatives of every form of social and war activity in the community.

For the Fourth Liberty Loan, Mr.
Douglas Watson, until recently Food Administrator of San Mateo county, but a newcomer in Palo Alto, was appointed campaign manager. The "Volunteer Day" plan consisted of naming the day before the beginning of the Loan Drive, "Volunteer Day," giving the matter a great deal of publicity in the newspapers and by the distribution of circulars, etc. and calling upon all patriots to go to their usual polling places on "Volunteer Day" and to sign a pledge that within five days thereafter they would deposit with any bank which they mentioned 10 per cent of the amount of bonds of the Fourth Liberty Loan which they were willing to buy.

When "Volunteer Day" dawned, all the polling places were opened with relays of volunteer workers ready to take the subscriptions and to distribute to each subscriber a Liberty Loan button and a red "V" signifying "Volunteer."

Previously the women had taken a census of every house in Palo Alto and the men every business place in Palo Alto and endeavored to obtain a promise from each man, woman and child to sign a pledge on "Volunteer Day." Each promisor was given a "V" sign, reading, "We will volunteer September 27th," which was to be placed in his window.

The result was literally a stampede on "Volunteer Day." Several hundred workers were unable to handle the rush of business and by nine o'clock in the evening Palo Alto had received pledges exceeding the total of its quota, which this time was $419,000, as compared with a quota of $170,000 for the Third Liberty Loan.

Thus the chairman of the Fourth Liberty Loan was enabled to telegraph that his city was over the top within the first minute after the Loan Campaign was formally launched at midnight.

It is hoped that the success of this plan will cause it to be adopted all over the United States at the time of the next Liberty Loan.

BAZAAR OPENED UNDER A BLAZE OF ENTHUSIASM

The bazaar for the benefit of Mt.
Carmel church opened under most favorable auspices in the Alhambra Theatre Thursday evening. The hall was packed with a liberal throng anxious to take chances on the various wheels and to make purchases at the gaily decorated booths presided over by pretty maidens. A large crowd attended last evening. The ladies in charge of the bazaar are elated over the success of the money taken in during both evenings. Never before in the history of Redwood City were there such large attendance at the opening night as was there Thursday evening. The ladies are making every effort to make the present bazaar the most successful ever held in Redwood City, and from present indications they are sure to succeed.
The bazaar will go on this evening and concluding Monday night.

Pioneer Table is presided over by Mrs. J. Kearse, the veteran bazaar lady, Miss Jessie Fitzpatrick with a bevy of charming maidens in charge of the candy booth, and is dispensing sweet meats to all comers at reasonable prices. The fancy table is in charge of Miss Mary Sarsfield who is assisted with a number of willing workers. Mrs. Joseph Winter looks after the interest of the food tables which is laden with tempting home cooked pies and cakes; Mrs.
D. P. Flynn and Mrs. J. J. Hahne in charge of another fancy booth.
They are assisted by a number of lovely matrons. This booth is doing a big business. The bazaar will be patronized this evening by a large number of soldiers from Camp Fremont. The hall is expected to be crowded to the doors this evening.
COME EARLY and participate in the merriment.

J. J. BULLOCK VICTIM OF AN ASSASSIN

Albert Comper, Makes an Attempt on Life of Attorney Yesterday Morning.

The news early yesterday morning that Albert Comper, a pioneer of Redwood City and who for some time has been losing his mental balance, had shot Joseph J. Bullock, the well-known attorney, caused intense excitement in this community where both men are well known.

The shooting occurred at a little after nine o'clock on Broadway opposite the court house and near the P. J. Foley building. A large number of the employees of the court house and others including Mr. Bullock, alighted from the nine o'clock train from the north and as they were passing the Foley building, the upper story of which is used as a lodging house conducted by Mrs.
Grove, a shot rang out from the corner room and J. J. Bullock fell to the curbing in front of the grammar school property. Mr. Bullock had just stepped from the street between the Foley building and the school property to the curbing when the shot was fired. About ten feet behind came Frank Marcus, one of the officials of the Frank Tanning company and a few feet away were Tax Collector McSweeney and Edward Stack, the deputy auditor. Mr.
Marcus was first at the side of the stricken man but in a second later Mr. Stack was there also doing all he could to aid the sufferer. In a short time Charles Landschelt came up with his automobile and Mr. Bullock was removed to the Huling hospital.

In the meantime the sheriff's office was notified, but before the sheriff arrived Comper had turned a pistol on himself and blew out his brains, dying in a few minutes afterwards. About four minutes elapsed between the time of the shooting of Bullock and the committing of the suicide. Sheriff Sheehan forced the door to Comper's room. There lay the suicide in a pool of blood. In the corner stood a shot gun with one barrel loaded with buck shot. The other chamber was the one fired on Bullock. On the table lay the pistol with which Comper shot himself.

After committing the deed he coolly laid the pistol on the table.
There is no doubt that Comper had premeditated the deed and had waited for his victim to pass. He laid the shot gun on a table and pointed the barrels out of the window and when Bullock passed he fired and it is possible he intended to fire the second charge but the arrival of Mr. Marcus prevented him from carrying out his desires.

The body of Comper was removed at once to the Redwood City Undertaking parlors and his relatives notified of the crime.

Dr. J. H. P. Dykes was called to attend the injured man. He found Mr. Bullock suffering from a severe nervous shock. His wounds are not serious. Two of the buck shot lodged in the fleshy part of Mr. Bullock's left leg while another of the pellets went through his left side doing very little damage. Mr. Bullock will be out in a few days, none the worse of his exciting affair.

For over a year Comper has been threatening Bullock and only Thursday followed him on the streets making vile threats. Comper was partly paralyzed and somewhat demented. Some three or four years ago Bullock acted as an attorney for Comper in a case which was compromised in the superior court to the satisfaction of the deceased. The client and the attorney were apparently friendly. About a year ago Comper seemed to turn against his former attorney. He became possessed of a mania to do his former friend bodily harm. He also vowed vengeance upon two other prominent citizens of Redwood City. His friends prevailed upon him to enter the Odd Fellows' Home, but he persistently refused to do so. Comper told his friends that he would destroy his three alleged enemies. This became a matter of notoriety about town.

Comper was a native of England, aged about 70 years. He had been a resident of Redwood City for 40 years. His nephew, Oscar Comper, will arrive here this morning from San Francisco. The funeral will take place this afternoon at 2 o'clock.
Interment will be in Mount Olivet cemetery. The deceased was a stepfather of Mrs. Joseph Dickle of this city.

ALBERT C. WEST SEEKS DIVORCE

Albert C. West has commenced an action in the superior court against his wife, Adlyna L. West, for an interlocutory decree of divorce on the ground of desertion. The Wests were married at San Jose on December 16, 1913. They have one minor child, aged three years but no community property.

GORDON M. SEELY CALLED TO THE COLORS THURSDAY

Gordon M. Seely has been inducted into the army. He left on Thursday to report at the Presidio in San Francisco to be assigned to some branch of the service. Mr. Seely hopes he will be given a position where he will be able to act as a secretary to an officer for he is a clever letter writer and stenographer. Like a good soldier, however, he will obey orders and accept whatever position he may be given.

Young Seely has been the chief clerk in J. J. Bullock's office for the past two years during which time he has read law and has prepared himself for the bar examination. Owing to his age, he being just 20 years, it was not possible to take the examination. His friends believe he could pass muster now if permitted to make the test. He has had an excellent training and besides has been a diligent student always. He has a splendid knowledge of law and will make a successful attorney.

Mr. Seely is a graduate of the local high school. During the last session of the legislature he acted as the confidential secretary for Senator M. B.
Johnson and while at Sacramento gained much useful knowledge.
His many friends in Redwood City predict success for him in the service.

MRS. HELEN VAN DYKE APPLIES FOR LETTERS

Mrs. Helen Van Dyke has applied in the superior court for letters of administration upon the estate of Edward Van Dyke, who died at Burlingame on September 12, 1918. The estate consists of several parcels of property at Burlingame, a piece of property at Tulare and money in the bank amounting to $5407.52. The entire value of the estate is placed at $8,176.92. The heirs at law are the widow and several brothers and one sister living in the east. Gilbert D. Farrell is the attorney for the estate.

REDWOOD CITY HOUSE UNDERGOING REPAIRS

Antone Bertuluchi, for many years a proprietor of a fashionable French restaurant in San Francisco, some time ago took over the Redwood City House and has spent over $3000 in remodeling the hotel and beautifying the interior. New beds and fixtures have been installed. The adjoining store has been transformed into an attractive cafe. Mr. Dossie, the painter, has been engaged for some time in using his artistic brush in the interior. He has painted attractive scenes of Italy, including the beautiful City of Venice, which city is ever dear to the hearts of the Latin race. The cafe promises to be one of the popular eating houses of the peninsula. French and Italian meals will be served at reasonable prices.
Mr. Bertuluchi is an expert caterer who knows how to tickle the palate of the public. The cafe and hotel will be formally opened tomorrow.

property valued in excess of $10,000.

received stating that he would soon be in action.

Miss Inez Matthews, a teacher in the local school department, received a telephone message from her home in prominent in the banking business of Mendocino county. Miss Matthews will be here today to resume her work next week. The young lady has the sympathy of the community in her sad bereavement.

A FINAL STRUGGLE FOR JUDICIAL HONORS

Among the very few state political contests which were not decided at the primary election in August, were those for the two positions of Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of California. Thomas J. Lennon, Presiding Justice of the District Court of Appeal, and Associate Justice Wilbur of the Supreme Court, effectively distanced the third contender for the two posts, but they are not yet elected, and the many tens of thousands of voters who cast their ballots in August for Justices Lennon and Wilbur must vote again for them in November.

The primary law provides that where two places are to be filled and there are three candidates all must contest again unless two receive a majority at the primary polls. Such a majority was not won by any of the aspirants, and although Lennon and Wilbur have a tremendous advantage as they go to the finals, they will need a continued and organized support to accomplish victory at the November polls.

The enormous vote registered on behalf of Justice Lennon is significant of the discriminating knowledge which voters of the state generally possess of conditions existent and desired on the Supreme Bench. Lennon has rendered the state a distinguished service as Presiding Justice of the District Court of Appeal and his elevation to the Supreme Court is uniformly demanded as a means by which modern methods, reasonable measures of expediting litigation and executive efficiency may be introduced in that tribunal.

TO THE PEOPLE OF CALIFORNIA

Since the primary I have made no statement because I awaited the decision of the Supreme Court concerning my right to appear on the ballot. That decision, rendered today, declares constitutional the perfectly absurd provision of the Direct Primary Law which prevents me from being the candidate of the Democratic party because I did not receive the Republican nomination. As a consequence of the Supreme Court decision sustaining as reasonable that provision of the Direct Primary Act, the Democratic party, the party of President Woodrow Wilson, the party at present in control of the Nation, will have no candidate for Governor of California at the approaching election.

Although I am a registered Republican, I sought the nomination of both the Republican and Democratic parties because the Direct Primary Law permitted and encouraged me so to do, as I stated in my platform. I really ran not as a Republican, not as a Democrat, but as an American.

I received the highest number of votes at the Democratic Primary although the Democrats knew that I was a Republican and although I had two very prominent Democrats as opponents for that nomination.

As a candidate for two nominations, the Republican and the Democratic, I received 36,575 more votes at the primary than were given to Governor Stephens as a candidate for three party nominations, the Republican, the Progressive and the Prohibitionist. I am therefore, in fact, if not in law, the majority candidate.

The very large vote of 223,726 given to me, is a cause of pardonable pride. The enormous majority that I received from the electors of both parties in San Francisco, my own home, is sufficient answer for all time to the misinformed and unjust criticism directed against my policies on local issues. If my policies and conduct as Mayor of San Francisco have been satisfactory to the huge majority of the people of this city, there ought to be no more complaint from people outside of San Francisco who are not affected.

The absurd situation, created by the decision of the Supreme Court sustaining as reasonable the intensely partisan provisions of the Direct Primary Act, demonstrates the necessity for an immediate revision of our Primary Election legislation. The people of California, as they have shown time and time again by their votes, are essentially non-partisan in their attitude toward candidates for State offices. Elections of State officers should be made non-partisan like the elections of Justices of the Supreme Court, Judges of the Superior Court, and of County and Municipal officers. It is idle to say that non-partisan politics in State elections will not be tolerated in California. The Non-Partisan Law of 1915 was defeated because it was misrepresented by the politicians and misunderstood by the people. The people, in the recent election, showed by their votes that they have no regard for the Party label in State politics. They believed, and justly so, that I, who had been twice elected as a Non-Partisan Mayor of San Francisco, would, as Governor, give to the people of this State a non-partisan administration.

I am deeply grateful to the voters in both the Republican and Democratic parties for their splendid tribute of confidence, and I would be less than human if I did not feel deeply appreciative of the act of the members of the Democratic party in rising superior to partisanship as they did when they nominated me by such a large vote.

I wish also to take this occasion, in conclusion, to thank the men and women and the newspapers throughout California who supported me so loyally, not for personal reasons, but because they thought that, if elected Governor, I would be of service to the State.

Respectfully,
JAMES ROLPH, Jr.

Those Who Lie Often Commit Greater Crimes Turkish Rugs and Mahogany Furniture are not a safeguard to wives, daughters and sisters against depravity During the twenty-six years I have been fighting the Dental Trust, I have been accused by the ethical of nearly everything from malpractice to manslaughter, but never until now have I been accused of being instrumental in raising dental prices.
The Dental Trust is publicly announcing that Dental Amendment No. 21 will require every dentist to employ a nurse and thereby raise dental prices. This is a wilful lie.
The official argument against this measure written by Dean Millberry, of the College of Dentistry of the University of California, is not based on the true facts, and is apparently made without sufficient knowledge of the amendment, or with deliberate intent to mislead the voter.
Dental Amendment No. 21 does not require any dentist to employ a nurse. It states plainly that when an anesthetic is used an adult third person must be present. That third person may be a friend, relative or any other available person.
Is there a mother, father, husband or brother who would say this requirement is not a needful safeguard?
To cherish the virtue of our girls and women, private wine rooms and boxes have been abolished by law from nearly every city in the United States. Yet persons under the influence of liquor can as well protect themselves as those under the influence of an anesthetic.
The dentist who objects to an adult third person being present when an anesthetic is given is not a safe person in whose care wives, daughters and sisters may be trusted, and yet we find the Dental Association, aided by Dean Millberry, openly opposing this particular clause in the Dental Amendment. Lies about raising dental prices do not answer or satisfy the people of California who put this amendment upon the ballot. It is up to Dean Millberry and these associates to explain.
If Dean Millberry does not stand for morality, he is not a fit person to direct the destinies of our young men in our foremost university, and he is not a fit man to draw a salary paid by the taxpayers of California.
It is up to you, Dean Millberry, to see that this shameful campaign of lying and misrepresentation to defeat a good measure is stopped, and stopped at once.
The people should know the truth about Dental Amendment 21.

SKETCHES OF CALIFORNIA AND CALIFORNIANS

BY GENERAL JOHN F. SHEEHAN

As an introduction to this series of articles relating to California I deem it fitting to present as the initial subject the true source from which the name was derived, there having been published so many conflicting statements. In this series the entire history of California will be covered, but not in dry chronological order. Biography of many who figured in the upbuilding of the State will largely predominate; interesting reminiscences will be related; grandchildren and other descendants of the men who were prominent in politics and public affairs in the early days will learn something of the deeds of their ancestors. If the reader will save the articles he will have a volume of reference on California affairs from the time of Hernando Cortez to Portola and Junipero Sierra, and from the "Captain of Tubac," the founder of San Francisco, to Governor Peter H. Burnett and on to Senator Hiram W. Johnson and Governor Stephens.

From Whence California Derived its Name.

The origin and meaning of the name "California" has for ages mystified philologists. It did not emanate from America, for early explorers never heard a native expression which in any way resembled the word. Some writers claim it was derived from the Latin words "Calida" and "fornax"—meaning a hot furnace or place—but this cannot apply, as the name was given to the world years before any explorers ventured towards the California Coast, and when the upper coast of the Pacific was as a myth. Certain it is that it was first applied by Hernando Cortez, or one of his associates, to the country now known as Baja (or Lower) California, and we are indebted to Edward Everett Hale, clergyman, author and philanthropist, for the solution of its source. Hale was born in Boston in 1822 and served as Chaplain of the U. S. Senate in 1903. His writings led to the organization of the national philanthropic society known as the "King's Daughters." Rev. Hale's theory is that the conqueror of the Montezuma reads the romance entitled "The deeds of Esplanian," which was published in Seville, Spain in 1510, the author being one Garcia Ordonez de Montalva. This was 23 years before Cortez made his first voyage to Baja California, and the stories of Xemenes and others of great riches and strange people up the Gulf doubtless reminded him of the romantic land which Montalva described, and he borrowed the name used therein, being precisely as now used—"California."

The "Deeds of Esplanian" was a romance pure and simple as Cervantes' "Don Quixote," and constituted one of the series of "Tales of Amadis of Gaul" which regaled the Spanish story lovers of the beginning of the Sixteenth century. California was described as an island peopled by Amazons and ruled by a Queen and island from that of Caesar's last wife, "Culpania." And Celtic scholars claim that the name is derived from that ancient language—"Calli-forn-lada," meaning a land of warrior maidens. But it is now generally admitted that Montalva gave the name to the world through his romance of Califia, the Amazon Queen. The author in describing the Queen says: "Now at the time when those great men of the pagans sailed with their great fleets, there reigned in this island of California a Queen, very large in person, the most beautiful of them all, of blooming years, and in her thoughts desirous of achieving great things, strong of limb and of great courage, more than any who had filled her throne before her. She heard tell that all the greater part of the world was moving in their onslaught against Christians."

Woman Suffrage

The question of suffrage was raised at the very beginning of Statehood in California. In the Constitutional convention of 1849 the effect of the Treaty of Guadalupe Hidalgo was discussed. That Treaty which Mexico provided that all white residents of California at the date of signing should be considered citizens without naturalization. De la Guerra, a delegate of Mexican blood, took the ground that the word "white" might exclude dark skinned Mexicans. Then the question of excluding men without families came up, when Captain John A. Sutter suggested that that would effect him as his family was not in the State. Delegate Ellis of San Francisco wanted to deny the vote to every single man and advocated a measure providing that every bachelor should be compelled to marry within three months. So there were "freak" legislators in the days of '49. Women suffrage came before the legislature in 1870. When Senator Chas. A. Tuttle of Placer county, advocated equal rights for women, and Senator Tweed presented a petition from Mrs. L. E. Cole and 3100 others asking for an amendment to the Constitution conferring the right of suffrage upon women. The Assembly denied that by a vote of 47 to 23. In the Constitutional Convention of 1878-9 Judge Thos. B. McFarland advocated women suffrage and was supported by James J. Ayers, Eli T. Blackman, Wm. P. Grace, Horace C. Rolfe, Geo. W. Schell, Geo. Steele, W. J. Sweasey, A. P. Vanquereel and others. A resolution to that end was lost by a vote of 67 to 55. In the Senate in 1880 a motion favoring suffrage to women lacked only two votes of carrying. Governor Perkins, in his message to the legislature in 1881, advocated the right of women to vote. In 1883 suffragettes made an onslaught on the legislature and a like attempt failed in 1886. It was left to the enlightened generation of 1911 to place women on an equal footing with the male sex.

The Real Discoverer of the Calaveras Big Trees

The Big Trees, or Sequoia Gigantea furnish another chapter to the wonders of California. The Calaveras Big Tree Grove was the first of this class to be discovered. Published reports thus far give credit for the discovery of this grove of mammoth trees to one A. J. Dowd, a hunter of Murphy's Camp, in 1852, but the author of this article has authentic information to disprove this claim. The first white man to lay eyes upon the big trees of Calaveras was John Marshall Wooster, and the time was the summer of 1850. Mr. Wooster and Arthur Sanborn were working a gravel claim near Volcano. An eccentric character called "Old Whitehead" would appear at the claim occasionally, displaying nuggets of gold and would disappear as mysteriously as he came, disclosing to no one whence he obtained the precious metal. At the Wooster claim were employed about nine men, and on the morning of May 29, 1850, when Wooster and Sanborn arrived at their claim they found it deserted. Old Whitehead had been there and the men employed in sluicing had followed his trail in the hope of discovering his bonanza. Wooster and Sanborn realized the situation and followed their men over the old Darnelle trail into Calaveras country. On the evening of June 1st, Wooster and his companion camped at the base of the lower end of Sperry's Valley, and the next morning while Sanborn was preparing breakfast Wooster started in search of a hobbled horse which had strayed away. On reaching the upper end of the Valley Wooster came upon a grove of the most wonderful trees ever seen or heard of by him, the Sequoia Gigantea of today, the big trees of Calaveras. The discoverer measured several of the largest trees and chopped his name into the bark of a huge prostrate one, (J. M. Wooster, June 2, 1850.) On returning to camp and informing his partner of the wonderful discovery, the latter remarked, "What is a big tree, more or less, when breakfast is ready?" Mr. Wooster wrote an account of the discovery of the big trees for a Stockton paper, and also described the trees in his diary. Wooster and Sanborn next day came upon their men, whom Old Whitehead had eluded. A marble slab on which is inscribed, "J. M. Wooster, June 2, 1850," marks the spot where "Old Hercules," now prostrate, once reared its head hundreds of feet in the air. John Marshall Wooster, the discoverer, was born in Albany, New York, and crossed the plains in 1848 at the head of a Wisconsin party of pioneers. He established the town of Wooster in Amador county, now known as Ione. His son, C. M. Wooster, is one of the most prominent real estate promoters in San Francisco, an owner of the Sacramento Union, the oldest daily newspaper in the State.

The claim made for A. T. Dowd is that while hunting from Murphy's Camp he discovered the great grove in the spring of 1852, two years after Wooster found the big trees. This grove is not far from the Calaveras river at an altitude of 4,370 feet and seventy-one miles from Stockton. There are trees averaging thirty feet in diameter, and on the stump of one big tree, five and one-half feet from the ground, four cottonwood sets have danced. One prostrate tree, the "Father of the Forest," is 110 feet in circumference and was 430 feet in height. The largest trees are probably three thousand years old. The south grove contains 1380 trees, the largest grove of Gigantea in the State.

James W. Coffroth, Stalwart Democrat of Pioneer Days.

The few "old timers" now living, fall into pleasant reminiscent mood when the name of "Jimmy" Coffroth appears in the newspapers, as it frequently does in connection with various degrees of "sports," and they think of his father, big "Jim" Coffroth, of the olden days, and then their thoughts bring pleasure, for Jim Coffroth had hosts of friends and his enemies, if he had any, were as scarce as "white crows." Democrats adored him, and his political opponents admired him but did not vote for him, for in those days the line was tightly drawn. James W. Coffroth came to California from Pennsylvania in the early pioneer days, with the rush of those who were lured by gold. He landed on the Pacific Coast with a great young frame, a generous heart and a mind stored with a goodly supply of legal talent. We first hear of him in the mining regions of Tuolumne, Sonora, Columbia, and the Jimtown of Bret Hart, always battling for law and order, even defending the innocent Chinese, Chilians and other foreigners against the lawless aggressions of the turbulent miners. In the campaign of 1852 when Franklin Pierce carried the State and Nation against the Whig nominee, General Winfield Scott, the victor of Mexico, Coffroth took active part. He presided at Vallejo, then State capital, over the Know-nothing or American party Convention in 1855 and assisted in the election of J. Neely Johnson as Governor and the late Judge Wm. T. Wallace to be Attorney General. We find him to be a Union Democrat in 1861, presiding over the Douglas or Anti-Lecompton State Convention, which body was called to order by Judge J. P. Hoge. In 1863 the two wings of the Democratic party came together (North and South) and again Coffroth held the gavel. At this State gathering of the "unaffiliated" John G. Downey was nominated for Governor, to be defeated by Fred F. Low, who filled the first four year term. At the next general election Coffroth accepted the forlorn hope for Congress and was defeated by Wm. Highy of Calaveras county, and this was repeated in 1867. The third trial for Congress was against A. A. Sargent of Nevada county, who won. At the Democratic Convention of 1871 Coffroth presided and Henry George, afterwards of "Progress and Poverty" fame, was Secretary. The indefatigable Jim Coffroth again took up the cudgel for Congress against Sargent and met defeat for the fourth successive time. Death followed soon thereafter, and "old timers" assert that had he lived genial Jim Coffroth would be running yet. Ten years thereafter another "Jim" (Budd) won that district for Democracy, by his famous "backboard" campaign, defeating Frank Page, the "Hangtown" stage driver, who had served ten years in Congress.

Will tell you frankly and freely why the Dental Measure No. 21 should not pass.

He will tell you the dangers to the health of yourself and children, of the awful after-effects of low-priced, incompetent dentistry.

If this measure passes it will open the doors of California and admit the riff-raff from elsewhere to practice without examination.

Office Brown of the local police department left on Thursday for his old home in Boston to pay a short visit to his aged parents whom he has not seen in many years. He will be gone for about three weeks. During his absence his place in the department will be filled by Sheriff M. Sheehan.

Robbers broke into the Fremont Candy store some time early on Tuesday morning. They ransacked the place taking with them high priced cigarettes and cigars valued at $150. An entrance was gained through the transom of the front door. The thieves then went to the Biouvouac down the street removing several articles of value. There is no clue to the theft.

Duff and Doyle have inaugurated a new delivery system beginning with October first. Hereafter only two deliveries will be made daily, one in the morning and the other in the afternoon. Customers will place their orders accordingly.

The following personal item appeared in the last issue of the "Headquarters Herald" published at the front in France: "Personal. Fred Redmond Cochrane, the pride of Menlo Park. We'll grant that your good looks have been a wonderful help to you in the past, but the future doesn't seem so promising. As an index, you are a darn good ball player. And for your ability as a ball player, kindly refer to the rosters of Company C. How's chances of borrowing ten, Cochrane?"

Mrs. Philip Wales entertained a group of the smart set at luncheon recently in compliment of Mrs. Geoffrey Lauzier, who arrived recently from Montana. The pleasurable affair was held at the beautiful home of the hostess on Santa Cruz avenue.

H. J. Readeau, proprietor of the Camp Garage, is erecting a commodious garage on the highway near Oak Grove avenue. When finished the garage will be equipped with all modern appliances.

A new line of Eastman Kodaks have arrived at Harry Baker's from the east.

The postoffice has been enlarged more boxes put in and the window space increased. Since the advent of the camp business of the local office has increased ten fold. There are now five persons employed in the office besides the postmaster. Miss Pauline Bernard an expert accountant has recently been added to the clerical force.

Mrs. Cassandra H. Adams member of an old Atherton family, passed away in San Francisco last Monday. The funeral took place from St. Mary's Cathedral on Wednesday morning. Mrs. Adams was the widow of W. J. Adams and was a native of Thomaston, Me. The family home was in Menlo Park for many years. Mrs. Adams is survived by two daughters, Mrs. A. Palmer Dudley and Mrs. Ansel Easton, and two sons, Dr. William L. Adams, formerly of Burlingame but now of the Lane hospital, and Charles Adams. Mrs. Adams was highly respected and much beloved woman endeared by all who knew her. The stork left a baby girl at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Martin McCarthy on Wednesday, October 2, 1918, Oak Grove avenue. Mother and baby are doing nicely.

Brigadier General Joseph D. Leitch who from time to time has been commander-in-chief of Camp Fremont was during the week promoted to be a major general by the president

The promotion is a popular one for the new major is universally esteemed.

Sommers and Kaufman of San Francisco have opened a shoe store in the Cottle block. They have a full line of foot wear at reasonable prices.

The government is reconstructing the road from Willow avenue to the Colley Landing at Ravenswood. It is to be rocked and oiled. The work is being done under the supervision of Supervisor John MacBain but it is to be paid for by the war department. Government trucks have practically ruined the old road. All the manure from Redmont station and Camp Fremont is hauled over this road to a lot of land near the bay where it is deposited. Mr. Fitzhugh of Woodside has purchased the fertilizer and every day tons of it is hauled over the road by the soldiers.

SAN CARLOS ITEMS

Mrs. Richard J. Shields, her friend Mrs. McGlynn and Miss Sophie Gleisner have returned from a week's outing at Brookdale and Santa Cruz.

Mrs. D. L. Stewart contributed several numbers to the recital given by Prof. Parnell at Hotel Willshire, San Francisco, last Saturday. Mrs. Stewart is a former student under the Professor.

Miss Bernice Beany representing the Frontier Press company was in our little city last Saturday canvassing for subscriptions to Scientific Facts and making deliveries. The Board of School Trustees have purchased one of these books of valuable information for the use of the schools here as it is admittedly one of the best books of its kind on the market.

Messrs. Coley Williams and Roy Smith with their families drove over from Newman Sunday morning to spend the day with the Cowgills. Mrs. Smith is a niece of Mr. Cowgill, and it was while on a trip from Kentucky some years ago to visit relatives in California that she met a native son who afterwards followed her to old Kentucky and brought her back with him for keeps, and now there are several little native sons.

The Williams' also came from Kentucky ten years ago to make their home in the Golden State.

Mr. J. M. Powers with Mrs. Powers had the happy distinction of celebrating three anniversaries last Saturday: that of their nuptial day, Mr. Powers' 39th birthday and his 23d year as an employe and officer with the White Star Steamship company. Mr. Powers has enjoyed many promotions since he went with the White Star people until he has climbed to a very lucrative as well as a very congenial position.

Morton and Beer Garage owners at San Mateo and also agents for the Fordson Tractor have attracted a great deal of attention to San Carlos during their demonstration of this wonderful piece of machinery (the past week. Airships are not in it now days with this new implement on the market. And this is one time that Asa Hull considers that he's ahead of the game, when all he had to do was furnish the ground near the state highway, and Messrs. Morton and Beer did the rest.

THE CASUALTY LISTS

How do you read the casualty lists? Do you begin at the top, turn to the right hand column and scan the heroes by home towns? Or do you look at the names, and, meeting a familiar one, look to the address to see if it is the boy you know; and if it is, then read the subhead to see his fate?

Perhaps you start with the slightly wounded and read up to the deeper tragedies where you glance gingerly as on dangerous ground hoping and full of faith that none of the names there will bring you face to face with a supreme sacrifice made by one close and dear to you.

When the list has been read without any start of recognition you feel happy—but only for a second because you know that every name represents a splendid American who has given his blood for you here at home. You share the grief and the pride of the folks who know those names with heavy hearts.

Are you worthy of their sacrifice? You are not worthy if you do not give the best that is in you in backing them up. They did it and in addition drove the Huns beyond their starting point toward the Rhine. You are asked to more than double your last Liberty Loan investment because the government needs at least six billion dollars. Think of that daily casualty list and then dare to put down one cent less than you can afford to invest.

SUES TO RECOVER ON POLICY

Laura M. Hawkins has commenced an action in the superior court against the New York Life Insurance company to recover the sum of $1849 on a policy held by her husband, Charles Hawkins. The complaint alleges that he disappeared from his home in San Bruno on March 1913 and has not been seen since. Seven years having elapsed Mrs. Hawkins now asks for the amount of the policy Hawkins is supposed to be dead.

MCCREA-HOLDEN MARRIED IN THIS CITY

Ceremony Was Performed by Father J. J. Sullivan at the Church of the Nativity

Miss Emma G. Holden, daughter of Mrs. George Holden of this city and Ensign John D. McCrea, U. S. N., only son of Mr. and Mrs. S. P. McCrea stole a march on their many friends Friday of last week and were united in marriage by Father J. J. Sullivan at the Church of the Nativity. The following morning Young McCrea departed for the east where he is to be assigned to a transport plying between New York and France.

Before leaving for the east last January the engagement of the young couple was announced. It was thought the wedding would not take place until after the war. The young couple consulted no one, however, and permitted cupid to have full sway. The marriage was a complete surprise to their numerous friends on the peninsula.

The charming and pretty bride is a sister of Miss Alice Holden and Mrs. Percy Long. She has been principal of the Northbrae school at San Bruno for the past two years. She is a very popular young woman.

Ensign McCrea won his spurs in the service by sheer hard work and attention to duty. He was given his commission for his knowledge gained by study during his short term in the navy. He certainly deserves credit for what he has accomplished.

Mr. and Mrs. McCrea have the best wishes of their many friends for a happy and prosperous wedded life.
